

Theatre Musicians Association

A players' conference of the American Federation of Musicians

If you play in the theatre, you need to be part of TMA.

Our jobs are under attack. The quality of musical theatre is suffering. We face many challenges including:

- » Virtual Orchestras
- » Pre-recorded orchestras (including tape, hard drive and other technologies)
- » Covered orchestra pits and disappearing musicians
- » Reduced orchestra sizes and instrumentation for older shows

We also face the ongoing challenges of wages, working conditions, travelling conditions and job security.

TMA is leading the effort to defend our livelihood. As a member of TMA, you will know what is being done, and what you can do, to address the challenges we face. You will know what shows are coming to your area and what instrumentation they will use. Most importantly, your voice will join with others – in unity and in strength – to defend our jobs and the quality of live musical theatre.
